Let these handheld satnav gadgets lead you to adventure

■ BEST FOR... ALL-ROUND ADVENTURERS
MAGELLAN CROSSOVER GPS, £279

This can be used in a car, on water or for off-road adventures. The colour touch screen displays your altitude, distance covered and your estimated time of arrival. Stockists: magellangps.com

■ BEST FOR... VALUE
LOWRANCE IFINDER GO2, £99.95

Despite the low price, the iFinder is easy to use and quick to pick up a signal. It's not the most stylishly designed bit of kit and it's light on features, but you can store 100 routes with up to 10,000 points on any trail. Stockists: lowrance.com

■ BEST FOR... TECHNOPHOBES
SATMAP ACTIVE 10, £299

This device comes ready to use and the eight-way joystick allows you to explore maps easily. The 3.5-inch colour screen displays your speed and distance as well as the route ahead. Stockists: satmap.com

■ BEST FOR... RECEPTION
GARMIN eTREX VISTA HCX, £279.99

If you're going into dense tree cover or a canyon, take this compact gizmo. The high-sensitivity receiver means that you won't lose connection when you need it most. Stockists: garmin.com

■ BEST FOR... STYLE
NOKIA N95, £495

If you don't fancy carrying an extra device around, use this mobile with built-in GPS mapping technology and voice navigation. Listen to the MP3 player on your way and use the 5-megapixel camera to snap your destination when you get there. Stockists: nokia.co.uk
